

1935

Yeah, I know it's October and I should write about Halloween. I should also write about witches, ghosts, pumpkins, candy and costumes. But we've had all of that stuff since August and we're all a little tired of it already.

So, instead I'm going to write more about all the way back in 1935. I promised you that I would write more and here it is.

At the movies the Academy Award winners were:

Best Actor– Victor McLaglen– The Informer

Best Actress– Bette Davis– Dangerous

Best Picture– Mutiny on the Bounty

Music from 1935:

I Feel a Song Comin' On; Begin the Beguine; Lullaby of Broadway; Red Sails in the Sunset; I'm in the Mood for Love.

In the sports news:

Montreal Maroons won the Stanley Cup in Hockey

Sam Parks won the US Open Golf Championship

Detroit Tigers won the World Series

Omaha (ridden by W. Saunders) won the Kentucky Derby

Heisman Trophy winner was Jay Berwanger from Chicago

NFL Champions were Detroit Lions

Kelly Petillo won the Indianapolis 500 at 106.240 mph

John Kelly won the Boston Marathon in 2 hours/32minutes/7seconds

Heavyweight boxing champion was James Braddock who defeated Max Baer

The golf ball rage was called Dunlop Gold Cups. The toothpaste that dentists said to use was called Worcester salt toothpaste. It gave you all of the benefits of a salt solution in a handy pleasant form. And last but not least you could buy an air conditioned refrigerator called a Coolerator for only $72.50!! Now that's what I call a deal.

'Til next month --and good bye Halloween– Hello Thanksgiving.
